

Distrigas buys the Methania

Distrigas has acquired the LNG carrier Methania from Exmar. The vessel will therefore continue to play an important role in Distrigas's LNG supply and enable the company to reinforce its position in the LNG transport segment and to capture commercial opportunities.

Tecto, a subsidiary of Exmar specialising in ship-management for large gas carriers, oil tankers and bulk carriers, will continue to manage the Methania and her crew on behalf of Distrigas.

Distrigas also co-owns the Berge Boston (49%), in partnership with the Norwegian shipping company Bergesen. This LNG carrier is under a long-term charter to SUEZ LNG North America (SUEZ LNG NA LLC) and is mainly used for transporting LNG from Trinidad to the North American market.

Distrigas has over 25 years experience in the LNG sector. Imported mainly from Algeria, LNG accounts for almost a quarter of the natural gas consumed in Belgium.
